

MARZ 2 MOON FESTIVAL

We shall gather together two by two
Beneath the glow of our ancient moons

To sing songs of praise to God above
And reflect His glory with our love

In saffron robes which we all wear
To God above we cast our cares

When the orange sun shimmers upon the great lagoon
The festival has ended beneath two moons

0001 ANCIENT MARTIAN POETRY

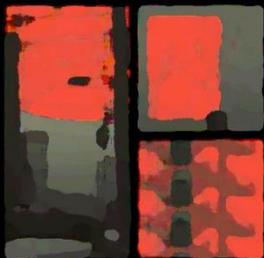

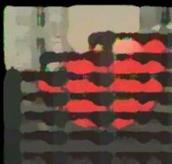

[Unofficial Opening Ceremony Poem of the Marz 2 Moon Festival]

We shall all be clothed in festive attire,
Bring in the masked singers of great victories,
For I shall announce: Its Toobi are as Afahauu, and Khini Tawaha taste like Eainuu, surpassing even that of beer.

0024 Carry My Sarcophagi

[Official Closing Ceremony Poem of the Marz 2 Moon Festival]

Carry my sarcophagi into the desert when I've died
Lay it before the pillars of flight

Look for the alignment above in the sky
When so let the engines ignite

I leave behind me the life I once led
As this world's shackles are shorn

When the window is open and the season is right
I will freefall from orbit reborn

0003 A Man's Appetite
